

PIPE members have access to on-line library of technical papers

THE LINK for PIPE members to have free access to much of the searchable library of technical papers held at www.pipedata.net has now been activated. Members, once they have logged-in, can follow the link to the library via the members' only area. At present three categories of pdfs are available for download; more are to be added within the next few weeks.

PIPE hopes that this facility will prove of use and benefit to members. Please contact the secretariat with any comments.

